Edward Nesbit

The Burial of the Stars
INSTRUMENTATION

soprano

8 violoncelli

PROGRAMME NOTE

The Burial of the Stars is a setting of Walt Whitman's poem 'On the Beach at Night'. In the poem a father and daughter contemplate the night sky. The child, initially upset that the clouds appear to be devouring the stars, is comforted by her father, who assures her that the stars are immortal, and are destroyed 'only in apparition'. The father ends with the enigmatic suggestion that there is something 'more immortal even than the stars'. The music is for the most part brooding and reflective in character, and attempts to capture both the calm majesty of the natural scene depicted in the poem and the more turbulent emotions of the father and daughter.
On the Beach at Night

On the beach at night,
Stands a child with her father,
Watching the east, the autumn sky.

Up through the darkness,
While ravening clouds, the burial clouds, in black masses spreading,
Lower sullen and fast athwart and down the sky,
Amid a transparent clear belt of ether yet left in the east,
Ascends large and calm the lord-star Jupiter,
And nigh at hand, only a very little above,
Swim the delicate sisters, the Pleiades.

From the beach the child holding the hand of her father,
Those burial-clouds that lower victorious soon to devour all,
Watching, silently weeps.

Weep not, child,
Weep not, my darling,
With these kisses let me remove your tears,
The ravening clouds shall not long be victorious,
They shall not long possess the sky, they devour the stars only in apparition,
Jupiter shall emerge, be patient, watch again another night, the Pleiades shall emerge,
They are immortal, all those stars both silvery and golden shall shine out again,
The great stars and the little ones shall shine out again, they endure,
The vast immortal suns and the long-enduring pensive moons shall again shine.

Then dearest child mournest thou only for Jupiter?
Considerest thou alone the burial of the stars?

Something there is,
(With my lips soothing thee, adding I whisper,
I give thee the first suggestion, the problem and indirection.)
Something there is more immortal even than the stars,
(Many the burials, many the days and nights, passing away.)
Something that shall endure longer even than lustrous Jupiter,
Longer than sun or any revolving satellite,
Or the radiant sisters the Pleiades.

Walt Whitman
The Burial of the Stars

Soprano

On the beach, at night, Stands a child, with her father, watching the east, the autumn sky. Up through the darkness, while ravaging clouds, the burial clouds, in black masses spreading.

pp

mf

sub.

(PIZZ.) sempre sim.
Jupiter, And nigh at hand, only a very little above, Swim the delicate sisters, the Pleiades.
Watching silently weeps.
Weep not, child, Weep not, my darling, -

With these kisses let me remove your tears.
The raven—

The clouds shall not long be victorious. — They shall not long possess the sky; they de—

2 + 2 + 3
your the stars on ly in ap - pa - ri - tion,

(pizz.) without mute

(muted)

(muted)

(muted)

(muted)

without mute

without mute

without mute

without mute

Poco più mosso \( \frac{J}{}= 63 \)

Jupiter shall e merge, be pa - tient

muted

(muted, alco)

pizz.

arm. nat. sul I

pizz.

arm. nat. sul I

pizz., arm. nat. sul I

muted

muted

without mute

without mute

without mute

without mute
all those stars both sil-ve-ry and gol-den shall shine out a-

The great stars and the lit-tle ones shall shine

gain,

The great stars and the lit-tle ones shall shine_
Shine. Then dearest child mournest thou only for Jupiter?

Considerest thou alone the burial of the stars?

Poco più mosso \( \frac{q}{m} = 126 \) (\( \frac{q}{m} = 63 \))

Poco più mosso \( \frac{q}{m} = 126 \) (\( \frac{q}{m} = 63 \))

\( \frac{q}{m} = 48 \)
\[ S \]

\[ T \]
I give thee the first suggestion, the problem and direction.

thing there is more immortal even than the stars.
(Many the burials, many the days and nights, passing away.) Some thing that shall endure longer even

(Majesty)

(pizz.)

(muted)

(muted)

(muted)

(muted)

(muted)

(muted)

(muted)
sun or a ny revolv ing sa tel-lite, Or the ra di ant sis ter the Plei a -